The Cooper Hospital

CAMDEN, N. J.

450 bed, general voluntary non-profit hospital. The plan for a hospital, long contemplated, became a reality, largely through the efforts of Richard M. Cooper, M. D., who was a prominent physician of this city and a descendant of William Cooper, who lived in Camden in 1682. The founders were Richard M. Cooper, M. D., William D. Cooper, Alexander Cooper, Sarah W. Cooper, Elizabeth B. Cooper, and John W. Wright. Original bed capacity thirty.
